Thousands to See Soap Box Derby

Veteran Drivers Entered

Entry List Swelling

A crowd of several thousand persons is expected to line the 1,000 foot Derby Downs race course tomorrow as a star-studded field of Soap Box Derby entrants speed off in quest of the Mansfield championship.

The eighth renewal of the News-Journal Derby will feature a field of approximately 40 contestants. The official entry list swelled to 27 cars yesterday when Co-Director Don Cram checked in 11 additional drivers.

Inspection and weighing-in ceremonies were being conducted again this afternoon and Cram expects from 10 to 15 drivers to make their appearance. Cars were to be on display at the Naval Training Center on Ashland road until 8 p. m. today.

Competition in the Derby will begin at 1:30 p. m. following a parade of all contestants down the racing strip at 1 p. m. Some 40 races will be run during the two-and-one-half hour show.

The 40 contestants will split a prize list of $1,000 but that will be incidental to winning the race itself. For the champion of the Mansfield Derby gets an all-expense paid trip to the national finals in Akron, Aug. 14. There he will compete against the best from more than 150 races in the United States, Alaska and Canada.

Last year, Dick Jordan, 15-year-old Mansfield Derby king, tied for 13th in the national finals in Akron.

VETS COMPETE

Trying to duplicate the feat this year will be at least 10 veterans of the 1948 competition, including two drivers who Jordan eliminated on his march to the championship. Jordan knocked out Chubby Billy Jamison in the semi-finals and defeated Terry McKown for the Class A. Championship.

Jimmy Mitchell, the slight Crestline youth, who won the Class B championship last year has not entered the 1949 Derby.

Jamison defeated Clyde Hunter for third pace last year. Hunter will also be in tomorrow's competition. Other veterans are: Donald Rabal, Ted Hisson, Tom Jordan, Carl Jordan, Larry Lodge, Robert Stone and Bob Wolf. Jordan was runner-up in 1947 while Rabal and Stone reached the '48 Class B semi-final round.

Two cars at a time will race down the Derby course which is located one-mile west of Mansfield on Route 30-N. Losers will be eliminated from further competition while the winners will advance to the next round.

Judging of cars for best design, best upholstering, etc. was scheduled for this afternoon at the Naval center.

Winners of these awards will be announced tomorrow at 8 p.

Air Unit Flies Home

Mansfield's 164th Air National Squadron flew in from the wars today. The squadron piloted 19 F-51 fighters and a B-26 medium bomber into Municipal airport after its two week training program and mock war at Dover Air Base, Dover, Md.

The planes were home last week end when the pilots took part in an air show in Toledo and were scheduled to participate in one in Cleveland. The Cleveland show was rained out.

A motor convoy with all of the squadron's motorized vehicles left Dover early this morning and is expected late tonight.

The bulk of the squadron's 300 men will arrive by train tomorrow afternoon. The rear echelon will arrive later in the week.

The 164th is part of the 55th Fighter Wing under Brig. Gen. E. H. Zistel. The squadron commander is Capt. William O. Ash.

Strike Delayed

DETROIT —(UP)— Threat of a Ford Motor company strike was postponed for at least three weeks today after the CIO United Auto Workers asked for a state-supervised strike vote in Michigan.

Corn-Eater Wins Title, More Corn

DELAWARE—(INS)—Douglas Dittrick is a guy from Delaware with a big row of ripe corn in his garden and a pain in his stomach.

Dittrick ate 13 ears of the golden stuff to win the Kiwanis club corn-eating championship.

They gave him 15 ears of corn as a prize.

Farm Plan Defeated In House

'Hot Potato' Confronts Senate

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Senate leaders were confused today over what comes next after the House's rejection of the administration's Brannan farm program.

Democratic Leader Lucas, Illinois, admitted frankly that he does not know what will be done now that the House has tossed this hot potato to the Senate.

The House defeated an administration-backed bill by Rep. Pace (D) Ga., by a vote of 222 to 152.

But it also repealed the Republican-passed Aiken-Hope law which was scheduled to take effect next Jan. 1 and voted to extend present farm price supports for another year to Jan. 1, 1951.

Pace commented:

"I feel rather confident that the Senate will not accept the bill passed by the House. It would be ill-advised."

Asked what the Senate would do, Lucas replied:

"Frankly, I don't know."

Chairman Thomas (D) Okla., of the Senate agriculture committee said hearings would be arranged as quickly as possible on the House bill.

Asked whether he thought the House vote killed the Brannan plan, he commented:

"Oh, no. I wouldn't say that. Quite the contrary. I consider that repeal of the Aiken law strengthens the chances for the Brannan plan."

Sen. Aiken (R) Vt., said that work on a new Senate bill already is underway and that it should be ready in several weeks. He added, however, that it will then have to wait its turn on the crowded Senate calendar.

Aiken predicted that the Senate "will stand" by the "flexible floors" provided in his act, which would allow supports to fluctuate between 69 and 90 per cent of parity.

Blind Man's Plea For Aid Proves Futile

NEW YORK — (AP) — Above the roar of an approaching subway train, passengers waiting on the platform heard the blind man cry:

"Help me, please, some one please help me."

Louis Kerman, sightless newspaper vendor, stood on the tracks of the subway line in a downtown Manhattan station. Apparently, he had made a misstep yesterday and fallen from the platform.

His dark glasses and cane, dropped in his fall, were several feet from him.

He reached out his arms, groping, as he cried for help. But there was no time to help.

"What could I do'?" subway motorman Frank Marmier said later. "I locked the brakes; it was too late."

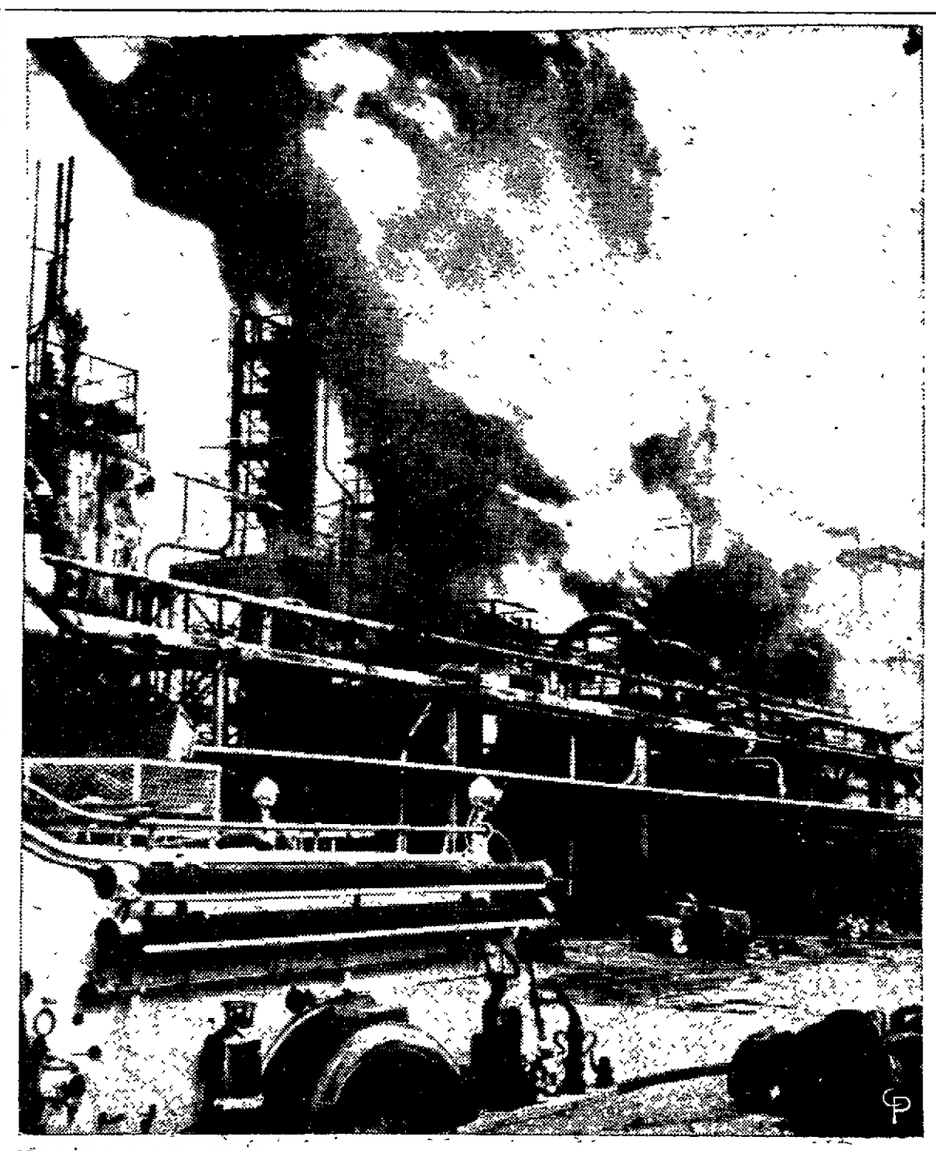
A police lieutenant telephoned the dead man's wife.

"I hope he didn't know what happened," Mrs. Kerman said.

Tokyo Rose Defense Begins New Attack

SAN FRANCISCO — (UP) — The defense sought to weaken the government's case against Tokyo Rose today by making a prosecution witness admit that she was forced to broadcast over the Japanese radio.

Yesterday, prosecution witness George Mitsushio made important reversals that weakened his previous testimony that Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino took the radio propaganda job voluntarily.



OIL STILL BLOWS UP—Two persons were killed and 22 injured late yesterday when the oil distillation units shown above exploded at Baltimore, Md. Flames which followed the initial blast in the Standard Oil company plant threatened a large portion of the East Baltimore industrial section. Firefighters, however, kept the flames from reaching 40 gasoline storage tanks surrounding the stills. More than 300 city firemen joined company personnel in order to bring the flames under control.

Two Perish In Flames

22 Injured In Oil Still Blast

BALTIMORE — (UP) — Authorities investigated today the cause of an oil refinery explosion that touched off a spectacular fire yesterday killing two men and injuring 22, one critically.

A blaze following two quick blasts raged for more than an hour in the East Baltimore refinery of the ESSO Standard Oil company, sending huge pillars of smoke and flame several hundred feet into the air.

Firemen played streams of water on surrounding oil-storage tanks as they confined the fire to the refinery's 60-foot-high cracking coil unit, where the blasts originated. The cracking coil, or still, is used for the processing of raw oil into refined products.

Fire Chief Howard Travers said the explosion probably was caused by an overheated petroleum still, but plant officials said the cause could not definitely be determined until an investigation is completed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Draws Outburst

NEW YORK — (UP) Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, accused Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today of anti-Catholic discrimination "unworthy of an American mother."

In an open letter to Mrs. Roosevelt, he asserted she had spread a "web of prejudice" in an "anti-Catholic campaign" and had attacked him personally for his stand against the Barden bill for federal aid to education.

Repairs Prompt

Check 6,206 Cars, Find 1,115 Faulty

One out of every four and a half cars stopped in the annual safety check by police and state highway patrolmen so far this month in Mansfield and Richland and Ashland counties has been defective.

Compiled figures of checks made by both police and patrolmen show a total of 6,206 cars checked. Of the total, 5,550 cars have been checked to date by patrolmen, working the Richland-Ashland county area. Police have checked 656 cars in the city.

Statistics further showed that defects were higher in cars checked in the city. Of the 656 vehicles examined, 191 defects were found, or an average of one defective car in every 3.4 cars checked.

Police said that of the 191 defects found, 101 were defective stop lights. Motorists having defective cars are being given 72 hours to have the defects corrected.

A total of 964 defects have been found in the 5,550 checks made by patrolmen from July 1 to July 20. This averages a defective car in every 5.7 cars checked.

Patrolmen said correction on the defective autos has been "prompt" and that more than 75 per cent of the warned motorists have returned for re-checks.

Vehicles found to be in good running condition are given a safety sticker on the windshield. Defective cars must be rechecked by the patrol or police after correction before the stickers are issued.

He will make an air tour of Canada in an Air Force plane along with 16 cadets from that many other states. The cadet exchange program selects one cadet from each state or wing including Washington, D. C., Hawaii, and Alaska. The 51 cadets so selected are divided into three groups to tour Canada, Switzerland, England and France.

Cadet Shasky will leave Mansfield airport on July 27 for Selfridge field, Mich. from which the Canadian tour selectees will start. They will return to the US on Aug. 14.

KNOW SECRET OF ATOM

LONDON —(INS)— A British science editor said today that Britain and Canada are now in a position to produce atom bombs if they so desire.

OB Wage Talks Set July 27

CIO Asks $500 More Per Year

Wage increase demand negotiations between the Mansfield and Barberton United Electrical Workers locals and the Ohio Brass company open at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the plant's Mansfield office. The Barberton and Mansfield plants each employ approximately 700 workers and the locals seek a joint agreement.

William Kozma, president of Mansfield Local 758, UEW (CIO), reported the demands follow the UEW nationwide policy of asking for a $500 yearly wage increase per employe. The Barberton Local 747, UEW (CIO) will be represented at the Mansfield negotiations Wednesday, Kozma stated.

Notification for the negotiating meeting was sent Ohio Brass company officials on July 11. Under present contract terms an answer was required within 30 days; and 60 days after negotiations end, the local can strike for its demands, Kozma explained.

SHORTER WEEK

Points sought by unionists at the negotiation include a shorter work week with the same pay, a three-week vacation for older employes, paid holidays, pensions, paid insurance providing hospitalization and surgery and a general wage increase. Neither plant has a closed shop but the UEW locals represent workers in negotiations, Kozma said.

Meanwhile in Pittsburgh, the Westinghouse Electric corporation today took issue with the CIO-United Electrical Workers charge that the corporation's profits were 300 per cent higher last year than in 1940.

The charge came after the company and union suspended wage talks indefinitely when the firm refused a demand for pay raises, pensions and other benefits.

Westinghouse said wages, too, had gone up more than 300 per cent. The company declared that although sales volume had risen, profits on sales in 1948 were only 5.4 cents per dollar as compared with 7.9 cents in 1940.

Vote Ends Dock Strike

LONDON —(UP)— Stricking dock workers voted today to end the 25-day-old walkout which paralyzed the port of London, provoked a major internal battle in the labor government and forced the cabinet to ask for a "state of emergency" from King George.

A mass meeting of more than 3,000 workers passed a resolution for the 15,500 strikers to return to work at 7:45 a. m. Monday.

The break in the strike came shortly after Britain's Labor government detained two Americans and one Dutch national on charges that they were sent to England as "communist agents" to block settlement of the strike.

The Americans were identified as Louis Goldblatt, 39, secretary treasurer of the Pacific coast branch of the National Maritime union; and John Maletta, 43, a member of the executive committee of the National Maritime union.

Hint Truman To Bar Atom 'Giveaway'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Overwhelming Senate approval of the North Atlantic treaty cleared the way today for President Truman's formal request that America help arm its European allies.

This highly controversial plan calls for more than a billion dollars' worth of arms during the next 12 months. Mr. Truman was scheduled to send Congress a message on it shortly.

"Original plans had called for the President to submit the program today. But an administration source reported some delay had developed and the message would be sent to Congress Monday.

The President's proposal was expected to provide a bar against giving the Europeans atom bombs.

It was understood the administration bill would specify that nothing in it would supersede the Atomic Energy act, which forbids release of atomic explosives.

The 20-year treaty won through to ratification late yesterday by a vote of 82 to 13 after administration leaders had given repeated assurances that senators who voted for the pact would not be obligated to vote for the arms bill.

This means that now in urging passage of the bill the administration apparently will not be able to use any suggestion of obligation as an argument for favorable action.

On its face, the treaty is not a specific defense against any particular aggressor but its primary purpose is to provide security for the western European nations against any attack by Russia.

The 12 signers agree that they will regard any attack on one as an attack on all. For the first time in history, the United States is joining with European nations in a military alliance.

All the member nations are to join together in developing, as soon as possible, a grand strategy of defense for the west.

TAFT LOSES FIGHT

Efforts by Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Wherry (R-Neb) and Watkins (R-Utah) to tack reservations to the treaty were defeated. The big majority of the Senate went along with Senators Connally (D-Texas) and Vandenberg (R-Mich). The 82 to 13 ratification vote exceeded by 18 the 64 votes required for two-thirds approval.

Two Democrats and 11 Republicans voted against ratification.

Most of the argument was whether the United States should state by reservation that in joining the treaty this nation was under no obligation to furnish arms, including atomic weapons, to other members. This was the gist of the Taft-Wherry-Watkins demand, which was rejected 74 to 21.

Two other Watkins proposals were treated even rougher. One, defeated 84 to 11, would have declared the U. S. not obligated to defend the North Atlantic area without approval by Congress. Another, turned down 87 to 8, would deny that the treaty obligated Congress to declare war or use U. S. armed forces to defend a pact nation.

Vandenberg, fighting the reservation proposals as unnecessary and hurtful to the spirit of the pact, summed up America's obligation under the treaty this way:

"It is to take our share of responsibility in maintaining and developing the capacity of the North Atlantic community to resist aggression in whatever way—including arms if need be—our own independent judgment from time to time determines to be necessary."

Weatherman Still 'Mugging'

Mansfielders were warned today to expect more hot, muggy weather, as the weatherman predicted intermittent thundershowers would make weather conditions even more unbearable today. The week end, however, is to be fair and not so warm.

Yesterday, after a warm, humid day, Mansfielders got some relief from the heat when heavy rain late in the afternoon cooled the air temporarily. Yesterday's high was 82 at 2 p. m., the low 72 at midnight. Rainfall for the 24-hour periods totaled .30 inches. At 10:30 a. m. today the mercury stood at 80 again.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast follows: "clear and less humid over the weekend, becoming warmer the first part of next week with temperatures averaging near normal. Generally fair weather with a period of thundershowers Monday or Tuesday with amount variable, but averaging about one-half inch."

70 Planes Visit Port

Municipal airport's runway's and parking strips were crowded this morning with private planes from all over the state as the All-Ohio Air Tour made its first stop here.

More than 70 planes carrying 160 persons landed at the field between 10:30 and 11 a. m. as guests of the city and the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Richland Aviation, Inc.

The visiting aviators were treated to coffee, doughnuts and cokes at the Sky Club before they took off for Dayton. Two Mansfield industrial firms presented them with small souvenirs of the city.

Mansfielders who joined the group when it left the city were Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Bonar, 383 Shepard road; Elmer Cash, U. S. Route 30-N; David Robinson, 594 Bowman street; Mrs. Ann Heisler, 513 Cline avenue; Edward Them, 224 Educational Place, and John Fraifogle, 44 Wise avenue.

Directing the Jaycee aviation committee which managed the welcome of the aviators was Robert Burns, 339 Grace street.

The other stops on the air itinerary are Dayton, Richmond, Indianapolis, Peru and South Bend, Ind.; Kalamazoo, Muskegon and Charlotte, Mich., and Toledo and Sandusky.

Bares Red Activities

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Testimony of a former Red that the Soviet secret police began trying 20 years ago to sneak agents into State department jobs was made public today by House investigators.

Paul Crouch, who told of 17 active years in the communist party, gave the testimony to the House un-American Activities committee in May. The committee released part of it today but withheld some "for the time being in the interest of national security."

Now a mechanical department employe of the Miami Daily News, Crouch indentified dozens of former associates as communists — people all over the country, in schools, unions, business and sorts of occupations.

He told of going to Moscow to consult "top officials of the Red army general staff and of getting orders for infiltrating communists into the American army.

Later, he said, he was active in trying to infiltrate the radiation laboratory and "all scientific research at the University of California."

Some of his testimony had leaked out before and some covered things Crouch had included in a series of published articles.

He said he was a communist from 1925 to 1942 and got out when he came to realize that he and other reds were "victims of a gigantic fraud."

Kill 10 Per Day

SEOUL —(AP)— Police Director Lee Ho complained today that communists were killing an average of 10 South Korean policemen daily. "But," he added, "we are killing communists, too."

Largest Highway Program Since 1930

County Projects Brighten Area's Economic Picture

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said public works and road projects in Richland county—going at full blast—were a reason for optimism as far as the economic picture goes.

The state Highway Department, Rusk said, has under way at present, the largest highway program since 1930—and Richland county is getting its share.

He pointed out that the public projects result in increased employment for local residents, even though the contractor may be from outside the county. The firms also buy their materials locally, he asserted.

Among state projects in the county listed by the county engineer were:

The new section of State Route 13, around the eastern side of Mansfield airport, expected to be completed in September.

The new strip of State Route 95, north of Pleasant Hill dam, which should be finished shortly after new 13.

Black-topping of State Route 545 from below Alta to the Lexington-Ontario road.

Building up of the Pleasant Hill dam as a park area by the Muskingum Conservancy district, at a cost of $350,000.

County projects include:

Construction of the Gass road, nearly complete.

Widening of the Lexington-Ontario road, from 40 to a 60-foot right-of-way, on obtaining easements from landowners. The new Gass road bridge has been completed.

Work is progressing on the Union street bridge in Butler, and the next county bridge project will be a new superstructure for the Hesselden road bridge, just south of Hickory land.

Other projects giving reason for optimism, Rusk said, were the school building and library addition program, the new TB sanatarium and other new projects. Volume of public works is "exceptionally high," he said.

New Yorkers Win 5-To-3 Over Tribe

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Top place in the American league looked as inaccessible today to the Cleveland Indians as it did to a fan on a flagpole, but Lou Boudreau refused to be disheartened.

"We're still very much in the race," said Lou firmly. "When we're mathematically out, and only then, will I say we're out But we're not out "

As it happened, the hard trying Indians' manager was talking just before yesterday's final game of that important three game series with the league leading Yankees.

"Why is it over?" he asked. "Even if we lose this game, I say we're still in the race."

They lost it, too, 5 to 3, giving the New Yorkers two games out of three and sending them off to Detroit with a 5½ game margin over Cleveland.

The Tribe will have some chance to make amends in New York when it starts a three-game series with the Yankees Monday.

Sitting on his flagpole, Charley Lupica, seemed a little discouraged over the series. Lupica, who promises to remain on the pole until the Indians are in first place, said:

"I'm gonna order my coal now—it'll get pretty cold up here in October."

So tonight, the world champs will try to pull themselves together for the opener of a four-game series with the Washington Senators with big Mike Garcia seeking his eighth victory. Paul Calvert is to be his opponent.

DOBY STILL OUT

Larry Doby, whose now-famous blunder in trying to steal home Wednesday night still has the fans talking to themselves, may again be missing from the lineup. He bruised his left arm in THE SLIDE but broke no bones.

Yesterday's loss was a very personal one to Pitcher Early Wynn. He got the Indians out in front in the second inning with a two-run double, but in the next inning lost his stuff temporarily

First he walked his opponent, Vic Raschi, then, after Hank Bauer singled, he walked Phil Rizzuto and Tommy Henrich to force in a run.

Next up was that always tough Joe DiMaggio. Joe met the ball with the count 3 and 2 and singled to right center, scoring Bauer and Rizzuto.

Joe Gordon tied up the game with his 14th home run—the first time he had hit safely in 15 times at bat—but from then on Raschi was in complete command.

The Indians collected four hits after that but any scoring possibility was quickly cancelled by double plays.

As for the Yanks, Bauer scored Snuffy Stirnweiss from second in the fourth inning with a single Then in the eighth, they drove Wynn from the box on successive singles by Yogi Berra and Bobby Brown

Gene Bearden came in and when Charley Keller grounded to Gordon, Berra was caught between third and home. Satchel Paige relieved Bearden and Stirnweiss singled through the box to score Brown for the fifth Yankee run.

Browns Open Drills Monday

CLEVELAND — (AP) — With 51 players listed, the champion Cleveland Browns of the all-America football conference will open their training camp next Monday at Bowling Green.

The league's schedule starts a week earlier this season, and as a result, the Browns have shortened their traing to five weeks.

The Browns this year will play three exhibition matches and 12 league games. In their first exhibition contest on Aug 14, they will meet the Chicago Hornets at Toledo.

Pumpers Play Ashland Team

After postponing two games in one day yesterday, the Gorman-Rupp softball team will try again tonight against Garber Printing in Ashland.

Gorman - Rupp's scheduled game with Findlay was postponed at noon yesterday when it was learned that seven Findlay players were in the hospital with ptomaine poisoning. A hurriedly-booked game with Farm Tools was set as a replacement but it too was cancelled by rain.

Stretch Regula will do the mound work for the Pumpers tonight.

Gopher Ball Society Lists Lot of 'Stars'

NEW YORK — (AP) — The major leagues' unrestricted Gopher society, led by co-presidents, Larry Jansen and Ralph Branca, is making a determined effort to erase the homer-pitching record.

And judging from the way the pitchers have been tossing home run balls, the record of 39—set last year by Murry Dickson then of the St. Louis Cardinals—is in jeopardy.

Thirty hurlers have been slugged for 10 or more homers this season. Every regular in the majors has thrown at least one Gopher ball—a ball the batters "go for."

The leading centender for Dickson's title are the New York Giants' Jansen, and Brooklyn's Branca.

Other high ranking claimants are Ellis Kinder of the Boston Red Sox, Randy Gumpert of the Chicago White Sox, Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves, Preacher Roe of the Dodgers, Ken Raffensberger of the Cincinnati Reds and Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Pitchers giving up more than 10 home runs include:

Larry Jansen, Giants, 21; Ralph Branca, Dodgers, 18; Alex Kellner, Athletics and Ken Raffensberger, Reds and Allen Gettel, White Sox-Senators 14; Bob Lemon and Bob Feller, Indians, 11.

3 Teams Deadlocked In Inverness Golf

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO —(AP)— Fifteen of golfs finest professionals and one of the top amateurs teed off in two rounds of play today, locked in the lowest scoring duel in the 12 year history of the Inverness invitational four ball tournament.

Only four points separated the top from the bottom as three teams tied for the lead with a plus two rating, one point ahead of the fourth place team as they squared off this morning.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Johnny Palmer of Bandin, N. C., firing a record equalling best ball of 60, eleven under par were at plus two after their two up victory over Bob Hamilton, former PGA champion, and Chick Harbert, Detroit, who were nine under regular figures with 62.

Also at plus two were Sam Snead, PGA masters champion, and Dick Metz, who beat Dutch Harrison and Jim Turnesa, and Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander, who came in with a two up win over Jimmy Demaret and Frank Stranahan.

FIRST AMATEUR

Stranahan is the only amateur ever to play in this tournament. He is supplanting the injured Ben Hogan who with Demaret captured the title in 1941—46-47-48.

Freddy Haas and Dave Douglas, the long shots of the tournament supplied the first surprise in the event when they downed the heavily favored combine of National Open Champion Dr. Cary Middlecoff and Jim Ferrier, one up. The newcomers to Inverness, Haas and Douglas, played spectacularly as they turned the front nine in three under par figures and then fired four consecutive birdies, only to lose one of the holes when Middlecoff knocked in a sizeable putt for an eagle three on the 12th hole.

Individually, Harbert was a Standout. He accounted for five birdies and an eagle, the latter coming when he exploded from a bunker into the cup for a three on the par five ninth. On the 18th, he drove a trap in front of the green and blasted the ball to within three inches of the cup.

It was the greatest scoring day in the history of the tournament as the eight teams racked up 58 birdies and two eagles. The seventh hole was halved by every team in birdie threes, the first time any single hole has been played in such a fashion.

Today in the second round matches Haefner and Alexander stake their plus two rating against that of Snead and Metz. Mangrum and Palmer meet the other plus team Haas and Douglas while in other matches those on the minus side battle each other.

In the afternoon's third round Hamilton and Harbert take on Demaret and Stranahan; Heafner and Alexander meet Mangrum and Palmer; Haas and Douglas play Snead and Metz, and Harrison and Turnesa tangle with Middlecoff and Ferrier.

Dick Gonzales Has To Fight For 'Cup' Spot

HAVERFORD, Pa. — (AP) — National tennis champion Richard (Pancho) Gonzales has his job cut out for him if he expects to land berth on the defending Davis cup team.

Alrick H. Mann, non-playing captain of the defending U. S. Davis cup team, was the author of the statement yesterday as he watched Gonzales gain the semi-final round of the Pennsylvania state tournament at the Merion Cricket club.

"Gonzales will have to fight for a berth against Frankie Parker, Bill Talbert and Gardnar Mulloy," Man said.

Man said Pancho's victory in the National Clay courts championship last week was to his credit but he has still got to show he can win on grass.

Schroeder, Parker, Talbert and Mulloy are wise in the ways of Davis cup competition. Shroeder and Parker won both of their singles matches from the Australians last year. Molloy and Talbert teamed for the doubles triumph.

Gonzales eliminated his doubles partner, Hugh Stewart, 6-3, 7-5 in the Pennsylvania tournament yesterday and qualified to meet fifth seeded Herb Flam, University of California at Los Angeles today. The other semi-final will bring together defending champion Sam Match, University of San Francisco and second seeded Vic Seixas, Philadelphia.

Brooklyn Opens Important Set With Cards

Erv Palica Stars In Hill Relief Role

By JACK HAND, (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Erv Palica is hailed as "the new Casey" in Brooklyn where the hard-pressed Dodgers today open a vital four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Day after day Palica is waved from the bullpen to save the skin of a regular Brooklyn starter just like Hugh Casey used to do. Erv worked in seven of the last 11 Dodger games, winning four and losing one.

Ironically he copped his seventh victory of the season yesterday because Casey, the old Brooklyn fireman, now with Pittsburgh, failed to stop a Dodger uprising. Luis Olmo, who may be the prize of the returning Mexican jumpers, nicked Casey for a game-winning "pinch" single that supplied Brooklyn's 7-6 edge over the Pirates.

Casey wasn't charged with the loss. That went to Lefty Bill Werle, who had put the winning run on base. But it was Casey who dished up the game-clincher on his second relief pitch.

The Dodgers really needed that win over the Pirates because the Cardinal victory over Boston already was posted on the scoreboard in right center field. Now with a 2½ game lead, they can't lose first place unless they blow the whole series.

Harry Brecheen lifted the Cards over Boston, 3-1 with a five-hitter while the Birds handed Johnny Antonelli, the Braves' $70,000 bonus dandy, his fifth loss. Antonelli has been beaten by the Cards four times in his brief career.

Enos Slaughter warmed up for Brooklyn with two singles and a double but Stan Musial went hitless in five trips.

Bobby Thomson led the New York Giants to their fourth straight win, three in a row over Cincinnati, 9-5.

HANK WINS NINTH

Hank Borowy, apparently making a career of beating Chicago since the Cubs traded him to the Phils, turned back his old mates for the fifth time, 8-4. Borowy was hit hard but weathered the storm for his ninth victory.

The New York Yankees took the rubber game of the Cleveland series, 5-3, stretching their American league lead to 5½ games on Vic Raschi's 15th victory.

The revived St. Louis Browns finally came to the end of their six-game winning streak in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader with Philadelphia, but not until they had broken loose with an 11-run inning.

With Roy Sievers hitting a grand slam homer, the Brownies scored 11 runs in the sixth inning of their 15-2 twilight decision over Dick Fowler. They were nosed out in the second game, 3-2, on Hank Majeski's game-winning triple in the eighth inning as Alex Kellner registered win No. 13.

Fourteen men went to bat in the big inning, a new high scoring total for the season in an American league inning. Seven hits and five walks did the damage.

Detroit slammed out 14 hits, including homers by Pat Mullin, Dick Wakefield and George Vico, to whip Washington, 6-3. Freddie Hutchinson, relieving Ted Gray in the fourth, worked 5 1/3 scoreless innings for his sixth victory. Rae Scarborough was the loser.

The Boston-Chicago game was rained out in the American league.

Canada's Net Team Splits With Aussies

MONTREAL — (INS) — Canada's Davis cup ambitions were suddenly at a new high today in anticipation of a doubles match that apparently would determine the outcome of its interzone semi-final meeting with Australia

This situation was brought about in yesterday's singles where the favored Aussies, challenge - round principals for the last three years, encountered unexpected resistance from the home forces, finishing the day in one-all stalemate.

In consequence, today's doubles took on the aspect of a "key" matc hin the best three-out-of-five series.

At that, only th best talents of Australian champion Frank Sedgman stood between Canada and a possible sweep yesterday, after its Brendan Bracken had scored brilliantly over Billy Sidwell, Australia, in the five-set opener. The scores were 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6.

Sedgman, however, wasted no time in polishing off Canada's Henri Rochon, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, in the second singles.

All-Star Staff Mapping Plans

CHICAGO — (INS) — Charles (Bud) Wilkinson and his aide-de - camps will get together in Chicago today to map definite training plans for the college all-stars scheduled to arrive at Northwestern university tomorrow.

The 68 - member all - star squad will clash with the national football league's champion Philadelphia Eagles Aug. 12 at Soldier Field.

Wilkinson, first former all - star player to coach an all - star team, led the University of Oklohoma to the big - seven championship last year.

Buckeyes Get Swimming Ace

CANTON — (AP) — One of the nation's most sought after high school swimmers has been accepted at Ohio State university.

Tom Whiteleather, 18-year-old Canton McKinley star, received his formal acceptance at the university which has produced a number of national champion swimming teams under coach Mike Peppe.

Whiteleather, who hopes to study medicine, smashed 20 records last year and was the top high school swimmer in the nation in the 50 and 100-yard free styles.

Derby Drivers Show Ingenuity

By CHARLEY STINE

The 1949 field may not be the largest ever to run in a Mansfield Soap Bob Derby but it certainly will be among the classiest.

When the expected 40 boys take off down the West Fourth street road hill Saturday at 1:30 p. m., every type of juvenile ingenuity will be in evidence.

An inspection of the cars weighing in at the Ashland road Naval armory yesterday showed what great effort had gone into the planning as well as the building of the racers.

All types of body construction, steering mechanisms, and materials had been used. The boys even had individual ideas as to the best way to sand and paint the exteriors.

Probably the fanciest jobs are the twin cars built by Clifford Phillips of 140 South Diamond street and Bill Jamison, 205 Saxton road. The cars have all-wood bodies with extreme streamlining done by bending and sanding of the wood in the frame. The boys planned the cars together and built them alike with one major exception.

Bill, a stocky boy of around 140 pounds built his car wide to accommodate his body. Phillips made his "Ohio Cafe special" narrower, just wide enough so he could squeeze in.

A feature of the cars is a single suspension spring which extends down the middle from one end to the other.

At least three of the cars have metal exteriors, although only the sleek black - and - orange "Mansfield Tire Special" of Carl Jordan is entirely covered with metal.

One novel idea used by one boy is the covering of the entire body of the car with bright blue oil cloth. The oil cloth drawn tightly over every part makes a streamline job in itself and gives the car a slick finish to cut through the air.

Lowest car on display yesterday was a metal and wood job built by Richard Gray and sponsored by R. L. Henry Lumber.

Weights of the cars differ as much as the design. Car and driver together are allowed to weigh 250 pounds but the lightest registered yesterday afternoon tipped the scales at only 167. It was the "Gale Sign Special" a sleek-looking job built by 63-pound Charles Old.

Only one model was turned down because of too much weight. Rex Jerome Wilson of the Children's Home had to take his car back for a bit of rebuilding when the combined weight was 259.

Heaviest one to beat the limit was the aforementioned Bill Jamison. He and his car weighed 247½ and he planned to add the other two-and-a-half pounds before race time.

All the cars will be stored at the Naval Armory until the race. Most boys brought wooden blocks, horses and all sorts of supports to keep the weight off the wheels while the cars are standing.

John Hoffman Sets Pace In Mansfield Tire Golf League

Cooper Gives Ex-Boss Home Run 'Smooch'

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — (AP) — Not even Walker Cooper's "kiss" for Leo Durocher—a grand slam home run—could shake the Cincinnati Reds out of their latest losing streak.

Cooper's blast gave the Reds a temporary lead yesterday but they eventually went down before the New York Giants, 9 to 5, for the third straight time.

Cooper, obtained from the Giants in June, and Durocher, the fiery New York manager, have been feuding in the public prints And when the husky catcher cracked out his third inning homer with the bases full he called to Durocher:

"There's a kiss for you Leo--and it's a big one."

Cooper's homer—his 15th of the season and his 11th since joining Cincinnati—was about all the Reds had to cheer about.

Herman Wehmeier, Eddie Erautt and Ewell Blackwell had little in the way of pitching baffle to the New Yorkers. Wehmeier stuck around for 4 1-3 innings but the New Yorkers pinned his ears down early with a three-run outbreak in the opening inning. A triple, a single and the first of Bobby Thomson's two home runs produced the tallies.

Cooper's home run was the big blow in the Reds' five-run third inning but the lead didn't last long. Thomson's other homer helped the giants too three more runs in the fifth and Wehmeier took his walk to the showers.

Erautt finished out the frame, allowing one hit, and them Blackwell took over. The thin man allowed only three hits but two of them came in the seventh to go with a two-base error by Johnny Wyrostek for three more runs

Chicago Buys Lefty Haefner

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Chicago White Sox today obtained pitcher Mickey Haefner, 36, from the Washington Senators for the $10,000 waiver price.

Haefner, appearing in 19 games with the Senators this season, had a record of five victories against five defeats.

Haefner recently became involved in a dispute with Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club, who declared the left handed pitcher would not be allowed to wear a Washington uniform again. His acquisition gives the White Sox five left handers.

Williams Kayoes Bolanos In Lightweight Title Bout

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — Ike Williams cocked an unblemished eye on the world's welterweight championship today after defending his own lightweight crown with a bloody fourth round technical knockout of enrique bolanos.

Williams said he had been offered a title bout with welterweight Champ Ray (Sugar) Robinson by Philadelphia Promoter Johnny Attell.

He was ready for new worlds to conquer after his vicious pummeling of the Mexican, Bolanos, before 19,000 at Wrigley field last night. The dusky Williams, making his seventh title defense including his third against Bolanos, was never more vicious as he chopped the Mexican to the canvas twice before Referee Jack Dempsey halted the proceedings at 2 minutes 40 seconds of the fourth.

Dempsey signaled the end of the bout just as Bolanos' manager, George Parnassus, threw in the towel and leaped into the ring to aid his beaten and blood-smeared charge.

Williams had beaten Bolanos by a knockout in 1946 and a split decision in 1948.

The odds favoring Williams were justified from the very opening gong. He won the first round with a barrage of lefts to the face, accented occasionally by a right cross. In the second he jarred Bolanos with a rapid-action left and right to the combination that wobbled the Mexican, but there was no knockdown.

When the bell rang opening the fourth round, Williams zoomed over to him and connected with a thudding right uppercut. Bolanos toppled to his knees, his head between the champion's legs and his arms around his ankles.

RUSHES FOR KILL

Williams stepped gingerly away and went to a neutral corner. Bolanos rose shakily at the count of eight, and Williams rushed in for the kill. He smashed two hard left hooks to the head and then a right hook. Bolanos wobbled, but tried to hold his ground. Williams kept boring in and peppered a blinding series of left and right hooks to the face.

Bolanos was forced by the rain of blows into Williams' corner. He crouched there momentarily, his hands in front of his face forming a shield from the barrage. And then he slumped down.

County Public Works, Road Projects Bolstering Economy

The first week of the work-relief program has worked out "splendidly," Rusk reported. An average of 25 men per day have reported on county road projects to work out their grocery orders. The program was set up jointly by Rusk and Relief Director Harvey W. Burghard.

Of the 300 breadwinners on city relief cases, 90 were found to be able-bodied and available for work, Rusk said. When the program was announced, 18 asked to be dropped off relief while three others refused to work and were dropped by the relief department.

The relief aid of seven was reduced because they had not previously reported part-time employment. Of the 62 remaining, 36 showed up for work. The other 26 did not, but they have been ordered to show up next Tuesday, Rusk said.

Rusk said those who cooperate will be recommended to Burghard and C. W. Handley, manager of Ohio State Employment service, for private jobs.

Rusk said the amount of work a man does is figured out on the basis of the relief aid his family receives.

200 To Join Firemen's Outdoor Fun

Annual Picnic To Be On Two Days

Mansfield firemen and their families, expected to number 200, have planned their annual picnic for July 27 and 28 at North Lake park pavilion.

Two days are required, as one of the department's two shifts must remain on duty at all times.

Both shifts have set the starting time of their picnic at 3 p. m. Both will be held on the lower floor at North Lake park pavilion.

Each family will bring a covered dish and table service for the picnic dinner that is scheduled to be served at 5 p. m.

Committees have been appointed to arrange a recreation program and to furnish coffee and other refreshments.

There will be softball and other games before the dinner is served.

Tells Story Of Slaying

NEW YORK — (INS) — Raymond M. Fernandez, 34, yesterday put the full blame for the hammer murder of Mrs. Janet Fay, 66-year-old Albany, N. Y., widow, on his sweetheart and co-defendant, the buxom, 29-year-old Martha Beck.

In a dramatic recital from the witness stand, Fernandez told the jury he was in the bathroom "for about five to ten minutes" at the time Mrs. Fay was slain about 4 a. m. last Jan. 4 in a rented house in Valley Stream, L. I.

"When I came out of the bathroom, I saw Mrs. Fay crouched, head down, over a suitcase," said Fernandez. "Standing over her was Mrs. Beck. There was blood all around."

Her round face twisted in a smirk, Mrs. Beck doodled on a tab of paper while her lover related details of the crime.

His story did not seem to surprise Martha. She was one of the calmest persons in the courtroom.

Fernandez freely admitted tightening a scarf around Mrs. Fay's throat as she lay over the suitcase, bleeding. He said he did that "to stop the flow of blood from her head."

Medical examiners of two Long Island counties have testified, however, that "without a doubt" the scarf broke the widow's windpipe and killed her.

Mansfielders Attend Special Art Classes

Two Mansfielders were among approximately 50 persons from nine states who were enrolled in a two-week special painting class recently held at Ohio university, under the direction of Aaron Bohrod, Chicago artist.

The two from Mansfield were Miss Mary Jane Bolus, 34 Helen avenue, and Mrs. Shriley Wells Kerruish, 471 West Fourth street.

Miss Bolus, an art teacher at Senior high school, said, "Students were all types from professional artists and art teachers to those who merely like to paint as a hobby."

Despite the terrific heat during the two-week period, Miss Bolus said the group was up early every morning and spent the morning sketching scenes around the university. In the afternoon the sketches were transformed into water color and oil paintings in the studio.

At the request of the group, life drawing classes were held some evenings, but most of the work was landscapes.

Bohrod conducted the art and painting classes as one of the special summer session features at the university. Art students and artists from Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Virginia, and New York were enrolled.

Churchill, Bevin Claim They Doubted Wisdom of FDR Plan

LONDON — (AP) — Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said in Parliament yesterday they doubted from the beginning the wisdom of President Roosevelt's unconditional surrender policy for Germany. Bevin said in a House of Commons foreign policy debate the policy had left "a shambles" upon which to rebuild Germany. If he had been consulted at the time, he said, he never would have agreed to it.

Bevin, who was a member of Churchill's war government, said he first saw the surrender phrase in the newspapers. He said he would not have agreed if he had been consulted at the time.

Churchill, now leader of the opposition, said he first heard the phrase from President Roosevelt "without consultation with me." He said he did support it.

"But it was not the idea I had formed in my own mind," Churchill said. "But working in a great alliance with loyal and powerful friends across the ocean, we had to accommodate ourselves."

He added that he doubted the British coalition cabinet would have agreed to the unconditional surrender policy if they had been able to consider it at the time.

The unconditional surrender policy was announced in January, 1943, following the ten-day conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca.

It was there, the announcement said, that plans had been completed to force the unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Pact Ratified, What Next?

WHILE SENATE ratification of the Atlantic Pact has been quite generally regarded as a necessary action, the reasons for opposition to this commitment—as clearly stated by Ohio Senator Robert A. Taft—are such as to justify deep concern over problems of the future, now that the initial step has been taken.

It is the matter of arms aid to associated European nations that has disturbed Senator Taft, as it must disturb everyone who realizes the potentialities of such an obligation.

While there are twelve original signatories of the pact, it cannot be doubted that all of the others are placing chief dependence on the United States to provide the strength needed to prevent aggressive action such as plunged the world into two great conflicts within a generation.

One statement in Senator Taft's article which appeared on this page Wednesday merits careful thought. "I would like to be able," he said, "to vote for a declaration or a treaty which would commit us to go to war if Russia attacks Western Europe. . . . Such a declaration or treaty would be a deterrent to war. But combined with a vast program to arm half the world against the other half, the entire program, in my opinion, will be more likely to produce a Third World War than to maintain the peace of the world."

That, at a time when ratification of the pact was being so strongly urged and when Senate approval by a wide margin seemed assured, was a courageous expression of views reached after the serious thought which Senator Taft is accustomed to give matters of national and international import.

Closely following ratification of the pact will come the need for action on the arms part of the program—which will call for more billions of dollars and thus cause an added drain on this nation's economy.

The ratification vote of 82 to 13 evidences the nonpartisan support being given in the Senate to joining with European nations in their efforts to maintain independence and to present a united front against further Russian aggression.

The next move—that of arming these associated nations sufficiently to provide a barrier against possible Soviet military attack—has not yet taken form, with likelihood that Senate alignment will be somewhat different on this crucial step.

Wages, Profits and Prices

CIO UNIONS seeking further pay increases have sought to bolster their case with wage and profit analyses made by the economist Robert Nathan. A Nathan report late in 1946 argued that industry profits were plenty high enough to permit a second-round wage increase without any increase in prices. Wages went up, in 1947 and again in 1948, but so did prices, and profits went up, too.

Now profits and prices have started down, but the latest Nathan reports for the CIO—one on the general situation and one on the steel industry—contend that profits are still sufficiently high to warrant fourth-round wage increases without price increases or even with more price reductions.

There are pitfalls in attempting to use profits as a measure of industry's capacity to raise wages, and the old law of supply and demand is likely to have more influence on prices than any argument as to what companies could or should do about charges for their product.

Nathan belongs to the school of economic theory which holds that the most effective way to promote prosperity is to increase mass purchasing power by raising labor's wages. Another school, of which Chairman Nourse of the President's Council of Economic Advisers has been a prominent member, contends that lower prices, which increase the purchasing power of the whole body of consumers, will do more than higher wages to stimulate maximum production and employment.

Origin of Sectional Dialects

TRAVELERS up and down the east coast of the United States have often remarked on the varieties of dialect encountered en route, and wondered about their origin.

After 19 years and 12,000 hours of interviews, Dr. Raven McDavid jr., a field investigator for the "Linguistic Atlas of the United States and Canada", has compiled a report which traces the influences which have been at work in this region. The settlement of immigrants from a certain locality in Europe often gave rise to interesting colloquialisms, and social prestige in some areas demands a certain special standard of speech. Pockets of localized civilization, isolated from the rest of the country, retain quaint modes of speaking which change little from generation to generation.

The next region to be studied in this way is the Great Lakes area.

Such investigations are valuable in providing a background for social studies and are of interest to the curious. Most travelers will hope that all of the groups concerned will keep right on talking in their own vernacular. Travel and social intercourse are made more interesting by deviations from general pattern.

Noting that one out of every nine persons employed in the United States is working for the government, Clyde Moore, in the Ohio State Journal, comments: "The other eight are working to make the taxes to support them."

Now it is the Rolls-Royce auto that is to be had in a "thrift model" for $14,400—which is being joyfully interpreted as a "trend."

Washington Calling

Bickering With Britain

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE CLOSE wartime alliance between Great Britain and the United States is fast becoming a bickering and suspicious relationship that threatens to break out in something very much like a cold war. This is the unhappy reality little more than four years after V-E day.

It is nowhere better illustrated than in the sharp controversy over what atomic information shall be sent from the United States to Britain and Canada. That was the subject of the showdown session here last week as is now fairly widely known.

What has not been known is the surprising and dramatic turn that that conference took. Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic energy commission was prepared to defend the position taken by the commission in favor of a generous policy of sharing information with British scientists now at work on their own atomic energy project.

Lilienthal from the beginning, as he has made clear in his public statements, favored continuing the wartime partnership in which British scientists worked side by side with American and Canadian scientists at the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory.

He opposed Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the Manhattan Project during the war, who wanted to keep all secret technical developments for America's sole use. Groves had been largely instrumental in getting certain restrictions written into the law turning the vast atomic energy project over to a civilian commission.

• • •

Each Needs the Other.

AFTER lengthy negotiation with the many interests involved Lilienthal got approval for a limited three - way exchange between Britain, Canada and this country. Then the incident occurred, when a "courier" — actually an AEC scientist — was stopped on the way to Britain and ordered to return with certain information the commission had authorized him to take to England.

Senator Arthur H Vandenberg, a member of the Senate-House atomic committee, has told intimates how he and Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper jumped in a car and rushed down to the White House when they got word of the nature of the information the scientist had with him.

Hickenlooper, then chairman of the congressional committee, has since become Lilienthal's chief foe. On the basis of their representations to President Truman the "courier" was ordered to return.

But that did not end the matter either with the British or with those here in Washington who believe in an honest co - operative exchange. Hence, the showdown conference at Blair House.

It was not, however, Lilienthal who made the most reasoned and at the same time the most moving statement in favor of sharing our knowledge. That came from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower who had been invited by President Truman to be present.

Those who heard him were impressed by the soldier - statesman's deep sincerity and conviction. Even one of the senators present, who had been complaining about how we were "always shelling out to the British," seemed to take Eisenhower's remarks to heart. What Eisenhower said to that hushed gathering in Blair house went something like this:

"Gentlemen, I'm not an expert in these matters you're discussing. But I've had some experience in this field. Once in my lifetime I have had to direct the landing of troops in Europe.

"That was possible because we had a wartime ally in Great Britain, I would like to have anyone here tell me how troops can be landed anywhere in Eurasia unless we have an ally in Britain."

What he said that evening, Eisenhower often has said before. It goes back to his conviction that mutual self - interest must hold the British and the American peoples together. Above all, as Eisenhower sees it, the English-speaking peoples must cherish together the heritage of freedom that they share.

Frankly Speaking

Hush-Hush On the Bomb

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Britain and Canada know how to make an atom bomb. Neither has made one. Canada doesn't want to. Britain does. The only one either could make is the old-fashioned, 1945 model.

Neither knows how to make the up-to-date kind that we can turn out now. We've left them behind because this country hasn't shared with them the information on making the most recent model.

The highest government officials here have been having hush - hush talks. From what newsmen can learn those talks are about giving more atomic information to our two wartime allies.

But there's a bit of a mystery in why those talks are occurring at all at this time. Canada says it hasn't done anything to bring on the talks. And an informed Briton here says his country hasn't asked for any information recently. This is the background:

"During the war this country, Britain and Canada cooperated in making in the United States the bombs that were dropped on Japan. They shared information then.

Then the sharing stopped — full sharing did — in 1946 when Congress passed the Atomic Energy Act. This act said our government no longer could give any nation — this included Britain and Canada — our most secret information on bomb-making.

So, since then, those two countries have received some information from us but have been shut off from the most secret stuff. Now comes a question: How do we know Canada and Britain know how to make a bomb but not the 1949 model?"

Robert F. Bacher, former member of the Atomic Energy Commission and psysicist who worked on the first atom bomb during the war told a congressional committee on July 17 that the wartime cooperation between the U. S., Britain and Canada was quite complete.

He said Britain knows how to make the bomb and is getting ready to make one. But he pointed out that there are long steps between getting ready to make a bomb, then making the first one, then turning them out in quantity.

• • •

No Explanation Given.

SINCE the British haven't been in on the most recent knowledge of bomb-making, they'd have to start with the knowledge they had when we drew the curtain on them in 1946, or what additional knowledge they have gained in their own work.

But who says we have a 1949 model different from the 1945 one? This statement also was made July 7 before a congressional committee by Brigadier General James McCormack, one of the top officials of the Atomic Energy Commission.

He said there's been a "complete model" change since 1945. So much for the background:

On the night of July 14 President Truman called a secret talk. Some of the biggest men in government took part: Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Johnson, General Dwight Eisenhower, members of the congressional committee on atomic energy.

When they came out of the talk they wouldn't tell reporters what it was about. Later newsmen reported it was about sharing information on the bomb with Britain and Canada, and no one has disputed this.

Again Wednesday there was a hush-hush meeting, this time called by the congressional committee. Again some of the biggest men took part. Again they refused to go into details afterwards.

But why the sudden secret talks about sharing secrets? C. D. Howe, acting prime minister of Canada, says his government had no connection with the talks.

He said his country knows how to make a bomb, although maybe not "as good as the Americans turn out," but doesn't want to make any.

As for information about the bomb, Howe says there's some information his country doesn't get from us but is satisfied with what it is getting.

Here in Washington, a Briton, who ought to know what he's talking about, told this writer the British have asked for information from time to time— and sometimes got what they wanted, sometimes didn't — but haven't asked recently.

Shafer Rebuked For Criticizing Vaughan

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Early this week, Congressman Paul Shafer, Republican, of Battle Creek, Mich., publicly urged that Gen Harry Vaughan, military aide to the White House, be suspended. He charged that Vaughan was just as guilty as two other suspended generals who had unwarranted contacts with "5 per cent lobbyists."

A few hours after making this statement, Congressman Shafer got a phone call from a White House spokesman demanding that he "lay off." Shafer was reminded that unless he "piped down" on the Vaughan charges, he could expect no "favors" in his district from the White House.

Some even nastier, though indirect, threats were made to Shafer, coupled with a more friendly reminder that Shafer, Truman and Vaughan had once traveled to Fort Sill, Okla., together when Truman was chairman of the Senate war investigation committee, and that Shafer had taken some nice pictures of Truman firing World War I artillery.

Whether this combination of White House cajolery and threats had any effect on Shafer is not known. But it is known that he shut up like a clam, declined to elaborate to the press on his charges against General Vaughan.

• • •

Vaughan and S. O. B.

IT IS a safe prediction that similar threats and pressure will be brought against the Senate subcommittee now investigating "Five Percenter" James Hunt and his connections with Harry Vaughan. For whoever pried into the life of the President's jovial military aide is certain to be either privately pressured or publicly called an S. O. B.

Nevertheless, here are some unhealthy facts which Senate probers and the Army department might scrutinize carefully.

First there was excellent reason why Generals Waitt and Feldman played close to Vaughan's friend, Five-Per-Center James Hunt. For General Vaughan had demonstrated how he went to bat for his friends who got rebuffed by Army generals. He could and did influence their promotions and demotions.

• • •

Demotes General Lee.

SHORTLY after the war, Brig. Gen. William L. Lee of the air forces was demoted to the rank of colonel when he got into an altercation with Harry Vaughan's pal, John Maragon, the Kansas City ex - bootblack. Maragon, who supplies liquor to the White House and is frequently seen riding in a White House car, had obtained a special permit to go to Greece by way of Italy at a time when few foreign travelers were allowed in war zones.

And in front of the Hotel Hassler in Rome, Maragon, who always carries a picture of himself and President Truman, intervened in a dispute between an Italian bus driver and General Lee. During the altercation, the General applied the flat of his hand to Maragon's face.

It was 4 a. m. Washington time when this happened. But Maragon was able to get the White House on the phone, appealed to his friend, General Vaughan, and shortly thereafter General Lee was reduced to the rank of colonel, reprimanded under the 104th Article of War, and ordered back to the United States by air priority.

This incident was no secret inside the Army. Outside the Army it was published in this column more than two years ago. Generals read, and after that the generals were careful how they treated any friend of rollicking Harry Vaughan. "Five Per-center" Hunt, they knew, was so close a friend that Vaughan once took him to a White House garden party where he instructed the bandleador to play one of Hunt's musical compositions.

• • •

"5 Per Cent" Big Shot.

PROBABLY even more important than Vaughan's contacts with Five Per-center Hunt have been his contacts with the above-mentioned John Maragon. The chief difference between Hunt and Maragon is that the latter doesn't stop at five per cent. His percentage runs from five to fifty.

Maragon first became a five-to-fifty per-center when his old friend, Harry Truman, became vice president of the United States and he, Maragon, began to work for David Bennett, the perfume importer.

Bennett operated a luxurious yacht in the Potomac, on which Maragon conducted lobbying cruises, and Vaughan was a more frequent yachtsman.

Bennett's lobbying objective was to reduce the excise taxes on perfumery and, immediately after the war, to import French perfumes at a time when they were hard to get.

To this end, Maragon took one trip to France, expedited through his friend Vaughan. He also showed up —believe it or not— in Potsdam for the Big Three conference, along with Stalin, Churchill and Truman.

Housing was so scarce in Potsdam at that time that Mrs. Jimmie Byrnes and Mrs. Truman stayed at home, while many conference advisers were forced to remain in Paris and give advice over the long-distance telephone. Yet Maragon, thanks to his friendship with Harry Vaughan, turned up at the most important diplomatic conference since the war. When he left, he carried a pocketful of diamonds, presumably bought on the black market.

Assignment: America

Such An Odd Highway!

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK — As any American with a third-grade education knows, home-grown scenery is strictly for yokels, squares—or worse yet—for poets.

But the nation can take heart to the announcement that the recession is having no visible effect on outdoor advertising prospects for 1950.

In fact, the industry as a whole is confident that more, bigger and better billboards than ever will help blot any remaining traces of landscape along the nation's highways in another year or so.

The current fiscal year has been a lolapaloosa for the outdoor advertising agencies, and 1950 promises to be just as good, if not better.

It seems entirely likely that within a few years a sensitive city boy will be able to drive from coast to coast without any disconcerting glimpses of nature leering in the raw from field and stream. It will all be billboarded up, and a man's delicate sensibilities will not be jarred by all those trees and other hick green stuff.

Unadulterated American scenery can be very unhinging, as no one knows better than I. Only a week ago, I had a terrible experience—drove 100 miles north of New York City into Dutchess county with nary a billboard to break the monotony of the journey.

On the Westchester county and New York state parkways, they are simply and unalterably opposed to progress. They do not allow billboards, dog wagons, juke box joints, hamburger stands, saloons, ice cream fountains, diners, old car junk yards, golf ranges, dine-and-dance emporiums or even good humor men.

They do not even allow you to throw paper plates, newspapers, bubble gum wrappers or bodies out of a car! And what I say is, what is the good of civilization if you can't take it with you?

• • •

Different In New Jersey.

IT SEEMS to me that AAA ought to warn innocent motorists they are leaving civilization behind them, once they hit these parkways. There is simply nothing to look at for mile after mile except the Hudson river—and, after all, what is that except a mess of water?—Birds and bees, flowers and trees, green mountains, lakes and streams.

An innocent party who gets mixed up with all the scenery could die of starvation between dog wagons. Even then, he will have to get off the park system and hunt for his dog and wagon in the interior.

Even the gas stations are thirty miles apart, built of something called native field stone and half hidden in the scenery. If it were not for the familiar smell of eau de carbon monoxide, a motorist might well think he were in the wilderness.

So it is no wonder New Yorkers get the idea that Indians still lurk just north of the city limits, ready to put the old whammy on them. After all, when a man keeps driving and driving and never comes to a neon sign, even in Indian one would be welcome.

Now there is none of this namby-pamby nonsense about scenery in New Jersey where the Robbs have what is laughingly known to an assortment of artisans, carpenters, plumbers, electricians, painters and odd-job men as their country home.

New Jersey is an up-and-coming state and if there is any scenery in it, it has long since been covered up by billboards.

We sail up and down N. J state highway 29 twice weekly to Flemington, and believe me, we have never yet been annoyed by any of that native scenery.

If there are any vistas, views or panaromas, the billboard people have had the decency to obstruct, obscure or obliterate all traces of same.

And what the billboard people have missed, the hot dog, hamburger, juke-box and dine-and-dance people have taken care of.

At least, there is something for the motorist to look at in New Jersey. And if, in the course of looking, he loses his apetite, he at least knows he has been protected from any entanglements with that outmoded stuff known as scenery.

Speaking of Your Health

About Sinus Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

UNLIKE colds which, for the most part, occur during the inclement months, sinus infections can develop at any time of year.

They do, of course, often come as an aftermath to colds, but, for those who swim, warm weather can offer as much of a hazard as winter in this regard.

An acute infection of the sinuses should be treated just as is any other acute infection. The patient should be put at rest in bed in a well-ventilated room and the air in the room should be kept moist.

He should be given plenty of fluids and made comfortable with such drugs as the physician may prescribe, such as aspirin.

In acute sinus infection, the application of heat or cold over the affected area will often give relief from pain. If there is a great deal of congestion in the nose, nose drops, containing substances which shrink the lining membrane, may be used.

Some acute sinus infections produce fever. If the fever continues, the physician will decide whether or not to use such preparations as the sulfonamides, penicillin, or streptomycin.

Most physicians, as a rule, do not start active treatment of the sinus infection until the patient no longer has fever.

Increase Drainage.

The treatment used helps to increase the drainage from the nose without injurying the nasal tissues. It may include the use of nose drops followed by the application of heat over the affected area. Afterwards, gentle suction may be employed to stimulate drainage.

Washing out the sinuses is not done very often. If such washing is done, it must be carefully carried out by an expert because of certain dangers connected with it, such as damage to the tissues, injury to blood vessels, and excessive bleeding.

An acute sinus infection should not be neglected since the condition may then become chronic and serve as a source of trouble for a period of years.

Dave Boone Says:

NEW YORK bus companies say they will sue the Transport Workers Union for damages over the "flash" bus strike. If they are lucky enough to get the case before a judge whose feet hurt, they will win easily.

• • •

But I suppose the counsel for the union will make it a point to demand of every juror, "Where were you on the morning of July 16th?" And want to bar him if he was over four or five blocks from his job.

• • •

I see where Mayor O'Dwyer blames both sides for the strike. I don't blame him for being sore at everybody. But it does seem to me that this tenderness toward Mike Quill and his contempt for the general public can be attributed only to the fact that the mayor didn't have to walk back from Mexico.

Walter Lippmann

Discusses Europe's Financial Problem

Since nothing spectacular has happened, it may look as if the British crisis were one of those things that can be left to the finance ministers and their experts to worry about and work out.

They will have to make their proposals by September. The issues they will have to meet are as yet veiled. They are wrapped up in the jargon of technical finance which, because it is uninteresting and generally unintelligible, excites no strong feelings.

But the issues themselves are not soluble by the financial experts alone. For the choices, that confront the experts, the decisions that the governments must take, are passionate and dangerous. They are certain to touch deeply the popular standard of life in most of Western Europe.

And they could, indeed they may, touch the way of life in the western community of free nations.

There is a question which, in my view at least, we must always have in mind. It is how much shock and strain the political order and the international system of the Atlantic community is now able to withstand. There is ahead of us the shock and strain of a great crisis in the internal and external relations of Britain and of Western Germany, which will have far-reaching consequences everywhere.

We can, it seems to me, have reasonable confidence that the crisis will not provoke an international war.

But, on the other hand, the coming ordeal of the West is one with which democratic institutions are not well suited to deal. Rarely, if ever, has a democratic government met successfully the issues which the bigger European industrial nations are now facing.

Nor is the ordeal one which causes free nations to unite and to co-operate against their troubles. It tends rather to a policy of each for himself and the devil takes the hindmost.

The heart of the crisis is in the demonstration that even with the Marshall plan and with our contributions to Western Germany, the western countries cannot avoid a serious reduction in their standard of life.

The American subsidy is, as Sir Stafford Cripps has disclosed, no longer sufficient to make up the difference between what Britain is spending and what she is earning, between what she is consuming and what she is producing. But Britain is not alone. No other large western European country is anywhere near being able to support its present standard of life by what it earns.

Therefore, the basic choice is a bigger American subsidy continued for a longer time, or a reduction in the standard of life in Western Europe.

I do not think I am overstating the seriousness of the situation which is developing. The hard facts are very hard, and there is not much time left to prepare our minds—and then our policies—and then our measures.

John Held Jr. Revives Styles Of the 1920's

John Held, Jr., once on the staff of the Conde Nast Publications, revives his cartoon style of the 20's for Glamour's August 1949 College Issue. Mr. Held's drawings of "flapper" fashions-shingled bobs, chemise dresses, dangle earrings - point up Glamour's feature on current college clothes that newly interpret the look of the 20's.

Mr. Held's cartoons appear side by side with photographs of 1949 versions of leading 20's fashions. Included in the modern college girls's wardrobe will be: the famous racoon coat - now less engulfing than the 20's model: the chemise dress in flaming red - with the natural waistline and longer skirt of today; "slicker" raincoats worn with flopping galoshes - now designed in boy and - girl styles. The cover shows the old - time essential, the middy blouse, in a new color, a new material: gold wool jersey. Worn belted over a slim pleated skirt and boasting a new, natural waistline, the modern middy bids for the 'basic' place in this year's college wardrobe.

Short and sometimes shingled haircuts, requisites in the 20's, are already good fashion for today. The small head is further emphasized by deep cloche hats and drop earrings. Standard 20's accessories, the T-strap shoe and long ropes of pearls, add a touch of IT (20's version of Oomph) to today's costumes. The less flattering rolled stockings, concave figure and long waistlines of the Held flappers are left to memory in favor of today's emphasis on grace and femininity.

A pot of baked beans will stay good and hot for a long time if it is wrapped in aluminum foil or a lot of old newspapers. Aluminum foil comes packaged in rolls so it may be cut in any desired length. Foil may also be used to keep cold foods cold.

Voice of Broadway

COOL CUSTOMERS:

Don't, dear reader, make the mistake of thinking you're the only one who's sizzling in the intemperate temperature the weatherman's seen fit to toss around lately. The fact is that the sun, a democratic body, shines on everybody — and everybody, from Duke to dishwasher, from miner to mogul, from garbageman to glamor girl, is feeling a little soggy under the collar.

But some of our most celebrated citizens don't just talk about the weather — they do something about it And as a public service I'd like to pass along some of their recipes for keeping cool no matter what

Mind you, I'm not endorsing any specific methods I'm just reporting You pays your attention and you takes your choice

* * *

If you pick Gloria Swanson's method for keeping comfortable in the heat, you'll dress in filmy black. It's this glamorous lady's contention that colored clothes make the wearer feel hotter and I don't know but what she's so right Joan Roberts, on the other hand, prefers pastel, ice cream colors . Morton Downey just prefers ice cream, period Plates and plates of the frozen stuff

Jack Gilford, the wag, doesn't mind walking down Broadway in the blazing heat, provided he's equipped with a munchable raw cucumber. He claims nibbling on one makes him feel cool as a Raymond Loewy scoots around town in one of his fabulous automobiles, with all the windows sternly closed to keep out the random breezes, if any Sounds stuffy to you? Guess again The Loewy vehicles are, as they say on the movie marquees, Scientifically Air Conditioned

Coolly lovely Jane Pickens is a devotee of the good old-fashioned fan, a lace one preferably . Writer Bud Burtson whips up a healthy wind by sitting near an open window and painstakingly tearing his own old manuscripts into tiny shreds Says it's an infallible temperature-lowerer . Burl Ives escapes to the nearest boat — house row, or ferry, whichever's handy

* * *

Gregg Sherwood carries a little thermos bottle of chilled cologne with her everywhere she goes, and dabs it, at intervals all over the body beautiful

Paul Whiteman believes in brisk canters on horseback — whenever he can find an equine strong enough to support him Margie Hart, who used to strip professionally, doesn't ever do it socially — even when the heat's on

Her method of beating the sultry afternoons is to pour herself a long, cool drink, sipped through a straw. Wrong, kiddies — it's milk!). . .Comedienne Kate Murtagh, on a really warm day, gads about in a queer hat It's rather pretty, but to the sharp eye it looks suspiciously like one of those squashy icebags covered with lace and finished off with a frilled brim and ribbons The sharp eye is perfectly right It is a camouflaged icebag — and what's more, filled with ice.

* * *

Adolph Green, the writer, takes steaming hot showers, which he gamely insists are fine cooler-offers. But his literary teammate, Betty Comden, is fonder of inserting a sheet of paper in her typewriter and typing, over and over again "It's freezing It's freezing It's freezing "

Leo Lindy sits quietly in his own kitchen and spoons up quarts of his own inimitable cold borscht Joey Faye stands wistfully under the huge waterfull sign on Broadway, hoping a few drops will fall on him now and then Joe Louis heads into the hinterlands for a spot of cool golf Barry Fitzgerald, that lovable son of old Erin, partakes frequently of his favorite hot-weather refresher steaming chow mein . .Betty Jane Watson wards off the sizzling sun with a pretty parasol — usually one matching her frock

* * *

Dave Apollon heads from one air-conditioned movie theatre to another. (If the feature film is a Western, that cools him even more) Arlene Francis does a feminine Bernard Baruch by picking herself the shadiest park bench in Central Park to loll upon . And Bernard Baruch, if it's news, still frequently does a male Arlene Francis

Abe Burrows, so the legend goes shops for toupees, because not buying one makes his head feel so cool Mary Martin, who really ought to be waterlogged by now from her nightly (and twice on matinee days) showers onstage in "South Pacific," takes showers at home, too .

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Saturday, July 23

A SUDDEN uprooting, devastating event may upset all plans and objectives, especially if such on-slaught be met with undue excitement, clamor, temper of reckless management, although quick decisions and hurried motion may be imperative in the attainment of sound objectives of enduring worth The element of romance, high adventure or emotional drive may be dynamic in spectacular and unforeseen development. Heart and home affairs claim insistent action Concern over funds may arise perplexing and trimming the wings in flights of fancy or pursuit of pleasure

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may look for a year of high adventure, romance, upheavel and change, unforseen and unpredictable in its scope and benefit Too rash or sudden a grasp of this surprising visitation may complicate matters, particularly since finances may cause anxiety or loss Sound, practical evaluation of bewildering situations, stirring the appetites and emotions, might avert dangerous shoals, or sidestep calamity

A child born on this day may be adventurous, audacious and romantic, with many constructive drives, but may rush into devastating circumstances by its dynamic impulses or headlong plunges

Japanese Trip Faces Officer

PLYMOUTH — First Lt. John Fackler returned home here from Altoona, Pa. this week on a 40-day leave before reporting to Camp Stoneman, Calif. preparatory to being sent to Japan. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fackler, of Plymouth, and his wife, employed in Municipal hospital in Willard motored east to bring him here.

His wife will not accompany the officer to the west coast but intends joining him early in September when his departure orders are expected. He will be stationed in Japan two or three years, probably at Yokohama.

Lt. Fackler reports to the personnel center at Camp Stoneman, and after several weeks instruction probably will be placed in the division transportation office.

Pass Cancer Drive Goal In Ashland

Campaign Paced By Loudonville Area

ASHLAND — Ashland county's American Cancer society campaign for $2,000 has ended with a total of $2,284.67 reported by the campaign chairman, George Marble.

Loudonville area contributed $777.34 to the campaign sending it far over the goal as a tribute to Loudonville's famous native son, Charles F. Kettering, who served as national campaign chairman. Herb Welch served as chairman of the Loudonville area campaign.

With half the funds remaining in the county for local cancer control work, loan cabinets of items for home cancer patient care and cancer dressings have already been set up.

The county unit will man a tent at the Ashland county fair in September, showing free educational movies and distributing free cancer control literature during the fair week.

H. D. Wygant, chairman of the county executive board, will call another meeting of the board before the regular annual meeting to be held in October.

Mansfielder Finds Galion 'Street' Rough

GALION — Thomas A. Dillon, 42, Mansfield, is wiser today.

At least he knows more about the streets of Galion. Dillon became confused by cars turning into North Washington street which runs parallel with the New York Central railroad tracks on Harding Way East Wednesday evening and drove onto the railroad tracks, which he mistook for the street.

Slight damage was done to his automobile which was removed from the tracks by a wrecker.

Crestliner Hurt By Fall In Canada

CRESTLINE — Ernest Linn, general car shop foreman for the Pennsylvania railroad here, is reported to be confined to a hospital in Quebec, Canada, suffering from a fractured knee cap.

Linn and his wife were vacationing in Canada when he suffered the injury. He will be brought to his home here as soon as he is able to be moved.

Ex-Galion Executive Sues For Back Wages

BUCYRUS — S. Wynn Goodman of Shaker Heights, O., former president of the Stratbury Manufacturing company in Galion, has filed suit in Common Pleas court here against the company asking $5,650 for back wages allegedly due him.

Goodman alleges he was paid $11,700 in weekly installments of $225 during 1947 but that he was entitled to receive $17,350 under an oral contract he had with the company. He resigned as president of the company, which manufactures men's clothing, on Oct. 31, 1947.

LOUDONVILLE LIBRARIAN

LOUDONVILLE — Miss Edwina Fitzgerald, formerly of Akron, local public librarian, has resigned as of Aug. 1, when she will go to Mt. Vernon to take up her duties as librarian there.

Miss Fitzgerald came to Loudonville about two years ago, from Oregon. The local library board have not as yet replaced her.

LEGAL NOTICE

Frances Bishop, whose last known place of residence is 205 Dale Homes, Portsmouth, Virginia, will take notice that on the 16th day of June, 1949, Joseph E. Bishop filed his petition against her in the Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, Case No. 31290, praying for divorce and other equitable relief, on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Said cause will be on for hearing on and after the 29th day of July, 1949.

NEW PELLET CAPONIZING METHOD MAKES 'EM BIGGER—These two started life together at Brentwood, Pa. The one on the left is a cockerel, but the big fellow on the right was caponized by a new method, administration of a pellet of synthetic female hormone. Galion Pastor To Observe Silver Anniversary Sunday

GALION — Silver anniversary services will be held in the Peace Lutheran church Sunday honoring Rev. Philip E. Auer's 25 year pastorate at the church.

Rev. Herbert G. Lisle, Mt. Healthy, will speak at church services following Sunday school. He will be assisted by John W. Auer, son of Rev. Auer and a theological student at Capitol university, Columbus.

The same trio which sang at Rev. Auer's installation 25 years ago will sing during the service. Their selection will be "He Leadeth Me." The trio includes Paul Durtschi, Philip Neuman and Robert Tracht.

Preceding the commemoration services will be a carillon prelude. A basket picnic dinner will be held at noon in the parish house of the church followed by a social hour and musical program.

During Rev. Auer's pastorate the church has been remodeled in the interior and exterior at a cost of $18,000 and a $35,000 parish house built. At the present time the church is in the process of purchasing a new parsonage and is entirely free of debt. There are 769 members in the church, almost double the number in 1924. The church celebrated its centennial year in 1947 during which Mrs. L. M. Liggett and the late Mr. Liggett, presented a $27,000 carillon to the church.

Rev. Auer served as International trustee of the Kiwanis from 1941 to 1943 and as International vice president from 1943 to 1945. He also is active in the local Kiwanis club. He was chairman of the Red Cross blood donor unit during the war, has served as chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, and also served on the Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout Court of Honor.

Before coming to Galion, Rev. Auer served his first pastorate at Sharon, Pa., where he remained for three years.

Rev. and Mrs. Auer, the former Mary Henry of Columbus, have one daughter, Patricia, and one son, John, who lives in Bexley with his wife and child while he attends Capitol university. Rev. Auer's family home was in Marysville.

Return To Michigan

GALION — Rev. and Mrs. Franklin J. Klohn have returned from Michigan where they attend the third annual Rural Leadership school held on the campus on Michigan State college.

Births In Shelby

SHELBY — A son was born last night in Memorial hospital here to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Baker, of Shelby, R. D. 3.

Major Gets Wish, Leads Fighting Men Into St. Lo After He's Dead

NEW YORK—Five years ago this week many thousands of Americans went for a cross-country walk. And every field they passed made them a year older.

It happened on another continent at a place called St. Lo in a thing called a war. In that long ago time the world still tried to solve its troubles through warfare.

Then men who took part in breaching the nazi line there—a sieve to all France—don't remember the whole area so well. They recall better the rough bark feel of a tree they hugged. They remember a ditch they crawled into and hated to leave more than they ever feared to leave their mother's arms.

In those days there was no such thing as a landscape. There was the world you knew on this side of a hedgerow. On the other side was another world—an unknown terror. And every hedgerow safely passed was another birthday.

The Germans had lines of fire through the hedgerows. They defended them mathematically and fanatically, with skill, with guns, with blood.

It was a noisy time. The little guns chattered all day, and the big guns har-r-rumphed all night, like giants clearing their throats.

In the hazy skies great fleets of planes flew over and hit the German positions. And sometimes one would swim into a ackack burst, erupt in flame and go down smoking, leaving a muddy scar against the blue.

The earth was so torn by bomb and shell you would think it could never close up its wounds again. The doughboys were grateful for the craters. They made friendly foxholes for a man to lie and sweat in until he could gather his breath and courage to go on.

It was a terrible introduction to battle for many green soldiers.

"They bring up a new kid in the night," said a sergeant. "I check him in and he hits the dirt. Then a shell comes and finds him in the dark and the medics carry him away. And I haven't even seen the boy's face."

Every battlefield has a hundred anonymous heroes. Every man who took a step forward was a hero then, but one traded his life for a lasting fame.

He was the "Major of St. Lo"—Thomas D. Howie of the Staunton (Va.) Military academy, commander of a battalion of the 29th Infrantry Division.

The major was young and friendly. He had the gift of leadership.

"He was so kind and considerate you always felt comfortable around him," said one of his soldiers.

But Howie also was a determined man. He wanted to be the first man into St. Lo—at the head of his battalion.

"See you in St. Lo," he laughed at the end of a conference of staff officers planning the attack. It became the division's rallying cry— "See You In St. Lo."

The major didn't make it—alive. During an enemy bombardment he paused before taking cover himself to see that his men were down. A mortar burst caught him standing.

But in death young Howie gained his wish. His flag-draped body, by order of his commanding general, was in a lead vehicle of the first task force to fight its way into St Lo. And they laid him reverently in the rubble of a ruined church.

"It's foolish to take a dead man into battle," said a hardened coughboy. "It doesn't make sense."

But it did. It made one brave man a legend and a symbol.

Today there is a bronze bust of "The Major Of St. Lo" before that church, and the French deck it with flowers. It stands not alone for Major Howie It stands also for 1,818 other men of his own division who lost their lives there—and for how many thousands more?

Gangsters, Racketeers Meet In New York To Beat Drive On Taxes

There's a convention in New York—one that the efficient visitors' bureau hasn't listed. It's a gathering of top gangsters and racketeers of the nation. Such get-togethers are not uncommon. They have been held in Chicago, Miami, Atlantic City, Phoenix, Providence and other points.

These bosses of the syndicate, whose interests and holdings are intertwined, have business together.

It appears in this instance the topic on the agenda is an ominous drive by the U. S. Treasury to crack down on criminal evasions and violations of income tax laws.

The New York Intelligence division of the department has been summoning some of the foremost mobsters for months, several of them every day, to bring in their records and to answer questions. The Eastern wing is connected with the whole national body.

And a shudder of fear has the mob geniuses shaky. They haven't forgotten what happened to Al Capone, "Lucky" Luciano, "Nucky" Johnson, the organized grafters and hoodlums of the Huey Long set-up and the Pendergast outfit.

They know that whenever the Feds really try, they can get these malefactors of great stealth, for they are all venal and all vulnerable. They have influence beyond calculation, but when the G-Boys are ordered from up above to close in, nothing can help them.

★

There hasn't been an all-out effort, originating or authorized in Washington, to land anyone of political-underworld prominence behind bars since 1938, when enough airtight evidence was in hand to send up some of the most notorious.

Orders suddenly came right out of the White House to kill the whole project. Since then, several of the silk-lined mobsters have been quietly sent for and permitted to "rectify" their returns and come across with a total of millions of dollars.

But indictments and prosecutions, their nightmare horrors, have not been a threat until this year. These characters are big business executives, but they are thieves in their souls, and, despite their deep dread of doing time, they cannot make their own hands do their own bidding when they decide to pay in full and be relieved of the fear of Leavenworth and Atlanta. So they report a net of maybe 10 per cent of income, praying their drag and their smart subterfuges of covering up will save them. And usually they do.

But right now they are in deep danger. They don't know all of what Uncle Whiskers has on them. I can assure them it's plenty.

Beverly Hills Insiders tell me that community has a unique juvenile delinquency problem. Instead of being too poor, its youngsters are too rich. Instead of slums, they have swimming pools and vast acres. And they have sporty, souped-up autos, which under certain conditions they can drive at 16.

What with loose morals, high speed, liquor handy, these sons and daughters of millionaires keep the cops as busy as do the underprivileged youth of the poor elsewhere. And the police are leary to pinch them, as their parents are so influential.

555 Enroll In Summer Book Club

Youngsters Earn Own Volumes

A total of 555 children are registered in the summer reading club program of the Mansfield Public Library, Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian, announced today.

Miss Leonard said 386 are registered in the club for children in the first four grades of school, and 169 in the club for readers in the fourth grade and older.

Of the total registered in the younger group, 296 already have earned little cloth bags with one "gold nugget" in them for reading at least one book. Fifty-seven boys and girls in this club have read more than the 10 books necessary to keep their bags, and are continuing to read.

Miniature covered wagons made of paper are being moved across a table "desert" to show the progress of readers in the older club. In this group 134 already have wagons on the table as a result of reading at least one book, and 31 have completed their requirements for a certificate by reading more than 10 books.

Those in the older group who read and hand in written reports on 10 books for three summers are eligible to receive a book. This year at least five of the books must be non-fiction.

Nineteen children are eligible for books this year if they read and report on their 10 books.

Kinseys Come Back To City For 4 Weeks

The Kinsey Players, now in its sixty-first year will be back in Mansfield for three weeks of dramatic shows, August 1. The tent will be at the corner of Second and Walnut street.

The troupe is still headed by veteran player Madge Kinsey (Mrs. Harry Graf) and Harry Graf is general manager of the show. A new addition to the show is the Graf's young grand-son, their daughter, Betty Murdick's, son, whose appearance in Mansfield will make him a fourth generation Kinsey Player.

The company was founded in 1888 by the late M. L. Kinsey. Madge Kinsey was two years old when she was given her first part in the show. At the age of 16 she was a star. The troupe is one of 18 traveling dramatic tent shows left in the country.

Red Pressure Blocked Bill

COLUMBUS (INS) — Sen. Carl Sheppard (R-Akron) today blamed "obvious appeasement from pressure brought about by communists and their fellow travelers" for the failure of the anti-subversive oath bill to pass the Ohio Senate.

The bill would have required loyalty oaths from all public employes, including teachers.

Shepard also attempted to blame Governor Lausche for the failure of the bill to come to the floor for a vote.

Lausche had made no effort one way or the other with regard to the bill.

TAX RECEIPTS DROP

Sale of prepaid tax stamps in Richland County for the week ending July 9, was more than $8.000 off the sale figures for the same week last year. Sale of prepaid tax stamps in Richland County amounted to $26,417 for the week of July 9, compared to $34.855 for the corresponding week in 1948

Old Newman School Building For Sale

By MARGUERITE MILLER

The old Newman school building—which grew from a one-room "fine brick schoolhouse" in the early 1880's to its present 15-room size—will pass from the Mansfield educational scene at high noon, Aug. 5.

Public auction of the landmark and elementary school for hundreds of Mansfielders has been scheduled for that date by the board of education.

According to the original deed for the property kept at the board of education office, the land for the building was bought from A. C. and Mary N. Cummins. The deed was recorded at the courthouse on Nov. 13, 1876. The plot included one and one-half acres of wooded farmland.

John H. Eisaman, clerk-treasurer of the board, who makes a hobby of keeping old records on the city's schools, said he believed the first building put up on the site was a two-room structure.

However, Alfred F. Martin and his sister, Miss Emma Martin, 573 Wayne street, remember when they started school in the Newman building in the fall of 1880. It was a one-room school house then, they said.

The Martins, who came to the U. S. from England when children, also remember that there were only 20 houses in the neighborhood at that time and that the school yard was "full of thistles and old stumps where they had cleared the land."

The two-room idea of the school might have arisen from the fact that there was a tiny loft above the classroom. A few years later the loft was enlarged into a class room for the third and fourth grades.

All that history books say about the Newman school is that "during the year of 1879, a fine brick schoolhouse was erected in Newman's Addition in the eastern part of the city."

The addition, named after Jacob Newman, one of the founders of the city, lent his name both to the street and to the school on the street.

This fall, Newman school pupils will enter a new, modern building, completed this summer on Central avenue extension. Only the echo of children's voices will drift back to the old school yard at Newman and Grace streets.

3 Homes Ransacked

Police and sheriff's deputies said today three private homes, in and near the city, were entered and ransacked during daylight hours yesterday.

Nothing was reported missing at any of the homes entered.

Mrs. K. C. Kiley, 311 North Townview circle, reported to police at 4:25 p. m. that someone had entered her home through a window on the east side of the house by removing a screen. She said buffet drawers had been ransacked as well as kitchen cupboards.

Sheriff's deputies had two reports of home enterings. LeRoy Tasker, 10 Henry avenue, reported to deputies someone had forced the screen door at his home and had ransacked dresser drawers. Tasker said entrance was made between 7 and 11 a.m.

At 6:20 p. m., Mrs. Lulu Birmelin of the Colonial Guest house on Wooster road, reported that someone had entered her tourist home by breaking out a basement window.

Gas Blamed In Deaths of Four

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Authorities today blamed sewer or marsh gas for the death of four workmen, overcome by fumes as they dug a trench for a new sewer line in South Philadelphia. One of the victims died attempting the rescue of his co-workers.

A city fireman and another workman, lowered into the 28-foot excavation in an effort to aid the four, were overcome and taken to a hospital where they were revived.

EATS FIRST TOMATO—

Most Mansfield gardeners are proud of their efforts as amatuer farmers, but one city gardener really has something to boast about. Gordon Schwan, 747 Arlington avenue, has tomato plants which already are taller than he. The tied-up plants measure five feet six inches tall and are beginning to bear fruit. The Schwans ate the first tomato from their garden yesterday and it couldn't have tasted better. Schwan is especially proud of his small garden because it's the first one he's had in about three years. Although the garden space only measures about six by 12 feet, he has a variety of vegetables including cauliflower and broccoli. Secret of his large tomato plants are some helpful hints he got from his parents who are florists in Gibsonburg, he says.

THEY GASSED HERE

Mansfielders didn't see President Truman yesterday, but a few residents of the city got a look at tow of the presidential cars when they stopped at a filling station here to refuel on their way back to Washington from the Shriners convention in Chicago. The cars were extra-lone, sleek black convertibles, one a Cadillac the other a Lincoln. Only identification on the cars were government license plates and the word "police" in a lighted box on the rear of the vehicles. The drivers, who were the only occupants of the cars, said the cars were completely bullet proof, even the convertible tops.

MORE SUGGESTIONS —

The boiled blackberry root remedy for diarrheal disease, which appeared in this column yesterday as been altered slightly by Mrs. Garland Wiles of Crestline avenue. Mrs. Wiles says blackberry leaves are "just as good as the roots." She advises to dry the leaves, then boil them in water for tea. "The tea must be taken while it is hot since it will cause cramps if drunk while cold," she adds. The first blackberry root remedy suggestion was sent to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn by Emma White of Massillon after outbreak of diarrheal disease in Country Club Allotment No. 3, between Bowman street and Westbrook country club. Perhaps the best suggestion regarding the disease is to see your family physician promptly.

Jack Sayers of Norwalk thinks it was a mighty dirty trick. Sayers, who is co-owner of a cab company in Norwalk pulled in Mansfield at 3:52 a. m. today with a passenger in his cab. He took the man to Orange and Wayne streets as directed; the passenger told him to wait for him. Sayers watched as the man walked around to the rear of the house, presumably going in the back door. Sayers waited—and waited—and waited. Finally Sayers went to the door and inquired if the passenger was ready to come back to the cab. The sleepy - eyed occupant of the house said no one had entered his house Sayers, out a $9 fare and a few hours of sleep, put in a complaint to Mansfield police.

Thefts Sweep State

Loot Here Hits $1,273

Mansfield is caught in a general wave of car burglaries which is sweeping the state, Police Chief Jesse J. Schwab said today.

Thefts of $513 of clothing from two parked cars in the city last night and early today brought the total to $1,273 of personal property taken from cars during the past three months.

Clothing, valued at $368, and a $125 radio were reported stolen from a car parked on North Diamond street, just south of East Fourth near the Brunswick hotel. A coat, valued at $20 was taken from an unlocked car at the rear of the Schonauer Motor Sales, 113 West Fourth street.

Air Force officers, Capt. Christopher Bressan and Capt. Donald L. Anderson, reported the burglary of their car near the hotel where they stayed overnight. Both are stationed at Westover Air Force base in Massachusetts and are scheduled to leave for overseas duty on Aug. 2. The officers reported to police that the right ventilator glass was broken out. Additional air force equipment also taken was given no value.

PAPERS, COAT STOLEN

At 11 p. m. yesterday, M. T. Senokozlieff, 933 Herring avenue, reported to police that a coat had been taken from his car between 8 and 10:30 p. m. He said he left the car unlocked at the rear of the motor sales on West Fourth street. Senokozlieff said papers in the pocket of the coat were more important than the garment and that he would like them returned.

According to police records, 32 cars have been entered and burglarized of their contents since May. Twelve robberies have occurrd so far this month, highest total of any month to date. Eleven robberies occurred in May and nine in June. At least six of the robberies have been of luggage and clothing taken from the cars of transients who were staying at hotels.

Chief Schwab said unemployment is in part responsible for the upsurge in robberies. He added a warning that all motorists lock their cars when left parked and containing any personal property.

Sunday School Teacher Slain

OGDEN, Utah — (UP) — A wad of paper jammed down the throat of pretty 17-year-old Shirley Gretzinger was examined today in hopes it would lead to the man who strangled her and left her nude body lying in a field.

The strawberry blonde Sunday school teacher's body was found yesterday beneath a willow tree near a roadside suburban Mormon chapel.

Her brassiere and pink bolero blouse were twisted about her neck, a wad of paper thrust down her throat, and her blue print skirt rolled into a rough pillow beneath her head.
